FORTRESS DISTRIBUTION

Stand HS70

All eyes will be on Fortress Distribution as they launch new product lines at the Health and Safety Event.

Fortress Distribution continues to demonstrate its ability to introduce leading-edge PPE products to the UK with an extended product portfolio now offering Guard-Dogs Aggressive Eyewear, BodyPartner posture alignment clothing and ColdRush personal cooling products.

Founded in 2012, Fortress Distribution says it is growing rapidly through its partnership with Black Mamba Gloves and Accessories and YULEYS reusable overshoes by HexArmor but is now looking forward to an accelerated growth phase by introducing additional brands to its safety and work wear portfolio.

Guard-Dogs Aggressive Eyewear develops new and innovative eyewear styles that focus on quality, strength, and durability, with a major emphasis on protection from debris in aggressive work environments and high-speed activities. The range offers numerous goggle and eyewear styles and combinations that have been specifically designed to keep dust, industrial particulates, wind, insects, grit, and sun out of your eyes.

BodyPartner spine align t-shirt was created and developed by one of the UK's leading osteopaths to help provide relief and better manoeuvrability for those suffering with issues associated to poor posture. BodyPartner is engineered for posture improvement. The patented technology of the XPT-11R gives advanced detailing in the constructed fibres, the push-pull technology and the overlaying construction makes the garment unique in the way that it enables the wearer to regain the perfect posture.

Wearing a BodyPartner T-shirt will relieve issues related to poor posture such as neck, shoulder and back pain reducing the amount of days lost to WRMSDs.

ColdRush personal cooling products by HexArmor use Garmatex cooling technology, a high-performance fabric which is moisture activated so that as water evaporates, fast drying microfibers and natural minerals accelerate the cooling process.

Jenny Matthews, Director at Fortress Distribution, said: "Fortress Distribution specialises in introducing innovative PPE and safety workwear brands to the UK. We've continued to widen our portfolio and now offer 12 products in the Black Mamba Gloves and Accessories range as well as two versions of YULEYS targeted at different applications, Guard-Dogs Aggressive Eyewear, Body Partner Spine Align clothing and ColdRush personal cooling products. We're really excited to bring these product lines to the UK and to showcase them at The Health and Safety Event."

These new and innovative product lines are available now from Fortress Distribution and will be officially launched at The Health and Safety Event in Birmingham in April.
